REFLECTIONS FOR FEBRUARY 18, 2018

First Reading: Genesis 9:8-15

A covenant is a solemn agreement between parties sworn before God who oversees such oaths. Here God makes such a covenant with Noah and promises not to destroy all life with flood waters.

Second Reading: I Peter 3:18-22

Christians are saved by "passing through" the waters of baptism. That blessed water is the redemptive opposite of the destructive waters of the flood that threatened Noah and his passengers aboard that famous ark.

Gospel: Mark 1:12-15

The Son of God overcomes His testing by Satan in the desert before He begins His public life and ministry. He begins that with the announcement that the kingdom of God "is at hand," and not in the faraway future, as was always thought.
