Pastor’s Corner

I think we can do better

I’m here at OLP parish a year already; “tempus fugit” that’s for sure. During this past year, I’ve observed and learned a lot about the parish. There is so much good here. By and large, I find the parishioners to be warm, friendly and welcoming. There’s a family spirit here. No doubt this is fostered by the generations who live here: I’ve learned it’s not unusual for grand moms and grand pops, sons and daughter and grandchildren to live in the parish. Add in cousins and people who grew up together and married someone from the parish and the end results are strong bonds, deep family ties and a familiarity that you may not find in very big, suburban parishes. This is all a strength of the parish, and I feel blessed to be the pastor of such a community.

One area I think needs strengthening, however, is how we offer Mass as a parish family. I think we can do better with “full, active, conscious participation” as the Church names how every baptized member of the community should enter into the Eucharistic celebration.

Active not Passive

As we consider how we’re going to invite inactive parishioners back to the faith, I think an honest question we have to ask ourselves is, “What are we inviting them back to?” In other words, is the way we participate in Mass adding to the celebrations’ vitality? Or do we have to admit, I’m not consciously present, actively singing, responding, fully praying along together, (and not racing ahead), and paying attention?

To be perfectly honest with you, I think we have a lot of improvement to do in this area. Why is this important? There are many reasons but let me name two. First of all, because God deserves our best. When we assemble for Mass we all have an active role in praising, worshiping and thanking God. Secondly, how are we going to welcome back parishioners to the practice of the faith, if the way we celebrate Mass is not as life giving as it should be but is rather rote, lacks active participation, and can seem rushed or mechanical?

I’d like to start addressing these issues on a regular basis so that I’m doing my best as pastor of this wonderful parish to encourage “full, active and conscious participation” in the Sunday Offering of the Mass. And, as we attempt to welcome back people to the Church, we’ll be confident that our offering of the Mass is as life giving and spiritually uplifting as it can be.
