SUNDAY 6PM MASS

The Sunday evening 6PM Mass will be suspended for the summer beginning June 2. It will resume on September 8.

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

Most goodbyes bear more than a touch of melancholy. There seems to be so much pain in the process. We've all seen on TV the tearful hugs and kisses exchanged when a young soldier takes leave of family and friends before boarding the plane that will take him or her to faraway assignments. Tomorrow, Memorial Day, we will honor all those heroic men and women who said goodbye and went off to war but never came back.

There are countless other necessary goodbyes in our lives, perhaps less stressful but always marked by sadness. Somehow when they have to happen as part of our lives we wish otherwise. You could say that they give us one more reason to "scold Adam and Eve" for their misbehavior! Somehow we know that such things were not part of the original scheme of things.

Yet not all goodbyes are all bad, even if a bit sad. Children have to leave their parents so that they can live out their own dreams and the adventure of life. For friends who must separate from us it is the same. A worthy consolation is the fact that such absences make our hearts grow fonder.

In this weekend's Gospel, we learn that Jesus had to leave His chosen Twelve. We also know His leaving has a kind of "mission accomplished" ring to it. Since the evangelists have no interest in the kind of biographical details and the emotions we search for in a modern biography, we have to use our imaginations. Surely the Apostles had to be somewhat downhearted about their Master's departure. They were only human, after all.

Our Lord told them the news in a straight from the shoulder way, and added that if their love for Him was real, it would only be proven if they rejoiced that He was going to the Father. Rejoiced? That seemed at first to be so contradictory.

But the Lord's leaving them physically had at least two beneficial effects. First, they would be able to realize their full potential as Christ's emissaries. Second, it would bring about the arrival of the Paraclete, the Holy Spirit. He in turn would enlighten them further all that Jesus' coming meant for the world. He would be there to guide them in confronting the problems of their own time as Jesus would had He stayed. This, by the way, is still the role the Holy Spirit plays in the life of Church today.

Admittedly, we are living through one of the most crisis-laden periods of the Church's long march through history. There seems to be no end to the reports of abuse perpetrated by clergy of all ranks against victims of both sexes and all ages. What to make of it all? Some, like Pope Francis, have considered it as a period of cleansing. Others call it the preparation for a new way of "being Church."

Certainly if the Eucharist is the "source and summit" of the Church's life, then we will always have it, and the priests to offer it. We may be called upon to say "goodbye" to certain long-established elements in Church life. But in the meantime, we can still rejoice in the unchangeable fact of the resurrection, and Our Lord's promise that He will be with us "all days." Nothing of goodbye there.

At one time the Duke of Cambridge is reported to have said: "Any change at any time for any reason is to be deplored." That sounds like the saying "Come weal, come woe, my status is quo," an attitude that can be deadly in a church, when overdone. Thankfully, the Church is not a museum but a dynamic living Body that says "Hello" to each new day!

THE JOYFUL MYSTERIES IN PURGATORY

The souls in Purgatory hold a place of high esteem for the Catholic faithful. These are our relatives and friends who have gone before us, but prior to entering heaven they must spend a period of purification. They depend on us to shorten their stay in purgatory and speed up their joyous entrance into perfect life with the Most Holy Trinity..... Yes!... WE can do that! St. Pope John Paul II says that praying for the souls in purgatory is "the highest act of supernatural charity." What better way to pray for them than by adapting the Rosary?
